As we approach the holiday season, many of us are looking forward to spending time with family and friends and participating in the traditions that are meaningful to us. At the same time, many of us recall loved ones that are no longer with us. For some, this is recent, for others, it is more distant. Navigating grief and loss for ourselves is difficult, not to mention the questions and conversations that come up with our kids. If you find yourself in the midst of some of these hard conversations, and you're looking for some help, let me encourage you to have a look at <https://www.kidsgrief.ca/> This is an excellent resource for supporting adults as they walk through grief and loss with young people. At SKV, we also have a number of story books on the topic of grief and loss. If you would like to borrow one of these books to help start a conversation with your child, please reach out to the school. I can also help with questions and support if this would be helpful to you along the way. Sincerely,

Nick Ferguson
(SD#91 Counsellor for SKV)
